The Cambridge Theological Federation

The CTF is a collaborative, ecumenical body of theological colleges/seminaries, enabling students to experience the community and fellowship of those within your own tradition and enjoy worship and encounter with students from Anglican, Catholic, Lutheran, Methodist, Orthodox and Reformed backgrounds.

Why do your PhD through one of the CTF member institutions?

◆ Access to world-class universities
◆ Extensive library resources across Cambridge, including one of the UK's deposit libraries, with a copy of every book published in the UK since 1662
◆ A variety of attractive work spaces across Cambridge
◆ Discipline-specific and cross-disciplinary research seminars, at the Divinity Faculty of the University of Cambridge and in the CTF.
◆ A prime academic setting with multiple, open-access lectures by leading academics and global public figures
◆ Denominational communities of residence and worship
◆ Fast progress to thesis submission (PhD 3 years f/t; MPhil 1 year f/t)
◆ Affordable tuition fees

We have expertise in supervising research across all the major areas of theology, Church history, practical and pastoral theology, and biblical studies as well as specialisms within each of our denominations.

These programmes are available through five members of the Cambridge Theological Federation. Prospective students should apply to one of:

Margaret Beaufort Institute of Theology
An academic institution that works in the Roman Catholic tradition and its principle of human flourishing, by offering transformative educational experiences for professional and pastoral formation. It is committed to the empowerment of women and lay people. www.margaretbeaufort.cam.ac.uk

Wesley House
Wesley House is a centre for global theological education and research in the Wesleyan tradition. We have resident students in Cambridge from all over the world and engage in education and training in partnership with theological institutions in Africa, Hong Kong, the USA and the UK.

Institute for Orthodox Christian Studies
IOCS is the sole Christian Orthodox institution for higher education in the UK. It has the blessing of the Pan-Orthodox Episcopal Assembly in the UK. It provides a unique research environment of exploration and articulation of the Orthodox faith by fostering encounter and dialogue in an increasingly secular and pluralist world.

Westminster College
Westminster College serves the United Reformed Church. It prepares candidates for ordained ministries and offers a growing and diverse range of courses, retreats and events for everyone. The college campus is home to several other CTF institutions and includes an art studio and prayer labyrinth to enhance our welcome to all.
